NOTES A CHANGE FROM PACIFISM

General Delafield Addresses the Reserve Officers.

MAJOR BUNDY ALSO SPEAKS

Delegates to the Third Annual Convention Welcomed to Ohio by Governor Donahy—Former War Secretary Baker to Discuss "Peace Policy of America"—General Drum Representing Secretary Weeks.

Columbus, Oct. 25.—The third annual convention of the Reserve Officers' association of the United States was convened in the house of representatives' chamber here, with hundreds of delegates present.

The organization was welcomed on behalf of the state by Governor Donahy, who characterized the reserve officers' association as one of the most important parts of our national defense scheme. The governor said that the civilian branch of the army also was an important factor in the promotion of Americanism and referred to the fact that it had devolved upon the citizens who had been called to the colors to win all of the important conflicts in which the country has engaged.

Major General Omar Bundy, commander of the Fifth corps area of the United States army, welcomed the reserve officers on behalf of the officers at the corps headquarters at Fort Hayes and extended an invitation to make use of the various departments there for any information that would be of service to them.

General Bundy reviewed the history of the reserve officers' movement, saying that four years ago they had no organization, while at this convention the delegates represented a membership of 83,000.

Brigadier General John Ross DeLafield of New York city, president of the association, in his annual address, said: "Wherever the question of national defense has been presented in an unbiased way there has been a ready response to the citizen army movement. This change of view from pacifism has been reflected in congress and in the state legislatures. The organized reserve is now permanently established under the national defense act and will progress as to organization and training just as fast as the funds are provided."

General DeLafield recommended that a day each year be set aside as national defense day. He endorsed the unit system of training organized reserves and urged that the war department develop this plan of training and order the units on duty to take part in it. Reserve officers' training camp students, he said, should be encouraged to complete their courses and accept commissions in the army.

Brigadier General Hugh A. Drum, assistant chief of staff of the United States army, is attending the convention as the representative of Secretary of War Weeks. Newton D. Baker will deliver an address on the "Peace Policy of America" at Memorial hall to the reserve officers and the public tonight.

A special committee report calls for the presentation of a bill to congress providing for sprinkling the entire army with reserve officers on active duty and appointment of a new assistant chief of staff to promote reserve affairs. The report recommends that a committee of five officers be appointed to draw up the measure and present it to congress. The proposed law will provide that "a general officer of the army be made assistant chief of staff to co-ordinate and promote the interests of the Officers' Reserve corps and the Organized Reserve," and that a reserve officer "be placed on active duty in the office of each chief of arm and branch, one or more reserve officers be placed on active duty in each division of the war department general staff and in the office of the adjutant general."

McGowan, unable to pay a fine of $25 is in the county jail here. Mrs. McGowan said that she and her husband were driving in the Dixie highway from Detroit, where friends had given them several bottles of ale. The ale was in the car when the couple was stopped by the enforcement officers. Mrs. McGowan insists, however, that she and her husband were forced to accompany the agents through Toledo to Maumee, seven miles south of Toledo, declared Mrs. McGowan, where she said her husband was fined on a charge of possessing liquor. She has placed her case before Federal Judge Killits.

SOFT COAL RESERVES FOUND NOT HEAVY

Federal Geological Survey Makes the Announcement.

Washington, Oct. 25.—According to the United States geological survey, the reserve stocks of bituminous coal, necessary to meet the winter demands, is less than at any time within more than a year. On Sept. 1 there were about 47,000,000 tons of soft coal in storage. This reserve is 16 per cent less than for the same period a year ago and at the rate soft coal was burned between June 1 and Aug. 31, 1924, the summer months, when householders were not using their furnaces, it was but a 45-day supply. Any sudden increase in consumption, the hurried inauguration of winter, for example, will be quickly reflected in a reduction of the number of days' supply, the government experts pointed out.

The 47,000,000 tons of commercial stocks of coal was 4,000,000 net tons less than on June 1 this year and 15,000,000 tons less than on Jan. 1, 1924, and also 9,000,000 tons less than on the same day last year. While soft coal supplies were shorter the government points out that retail dealers' stocks of anthracite coal were 71 per cent larger on Sept. 1, 1924.

Bridge Collapsed. Marietta, O., Oct. 25.—Earl Pfaff, an employe of the state highway department, was killed when a bridge over which he was driving a heavily loaded truck collapsed into the Little Hocking river. The jury of eight men and four women deliberated 24 hours and returned its verdict on the ninth ballot.

CERTAIN PERSONS TO BE CALLED

Probers Given Information by Counsel Untermeyer.

NATURE OF STORY A SECRET

Testimony Taken Concerning the Activities of Bankers in the Campaign—Promoters of Literary Digest Poll to Be Summoned—Differences Between White and Black Factions in Virginia Aired.

Washington, Oct. 25.—The senate committee probing campaign expenditures heard testimony regarding the activities of the bankers' committee, which is collecting funds among New York city bankers for the Republican national committee.

George W. Simmons, a vice president of the Mechanics and Metals bank, testified that as a member of the bankers' committee he had sent out 500 appeals to junior officers of the banks and had received a total of $217.

Testimony was offered to show that the leader of the "lily white" Republican faction in Virginia, Joseph L. Crupper of Alexandria, had held out the olive branch to the opposing "lily black" Republican faction in that state, and simultaneously sent a check for $300 to the treasurer of the black organization, David A. Ferguson, a negro dentist of Richmond, with the statement that the negroes could use the money in the campaign.

The legal right of the Pennsylvania railroad to spend part of its earnings in a campaign "to educate" the public on political and economic questions through the medium of the menu cards used on its dining cars was discussed at length. W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania, occupied the stand during this debate.

Members of the senate committee said subpoenas would be issued for the officers of the Literary Digest, who are to be questioned as to the methods of financing and conducting a "straw vote" that publication is taking in the presidential campaign. Counsel for Senator La Follette also said they wanted to find out who was paying for large advertisements in newspapers and containing arguments favorable to the Republican ticket.

Samuel Untermeyer of counsel for La Follette informed the committee that he was in possession of information given by Chicago men, and that because of the possible effect it might have on the Republican campaign he would hesitate to take the responsibility for spreading it before the country until the committee had had opportunity to run down the "leads" that could be furnished. Counsel presented the information to the senators in executive session and asked that certain persons be subpoenaed. This request was complied with, but the names of the prospective witnesses were withheld.

SHIP TO BE SOLD

Washington, Oct. 25.—The United States supreme court has denied the petition of the Rolph Navigation and Coal company, San Francisco, for a review of the award of damages aggregating $14,500 to members of the crew of the "Rolph" for injuries resulting from beatings by a mate of the ship. Evidence at the trial showed Frederick Hansen, mate, had crippled three members of the crew by repeated beatings and assaults with fists, ropes, belaying pins, paint buckets and other implements during a voyage from New South Wales to Chile. The ship was directed to be sold by the United States marshal at public auction to protect the damages. The owners appealed on the contention that whatever injuries the seamen had sustained they could sue the captain and mate, but under admiralty law had no claim against the ship itself.

Representatives of the Valley Camp Coal company of Cleveland and the Bertha Consumers' Coal company of Pittsburgh signed the agreement. The Jacksonville agreement fixed a wage scale for union miners and runs three years.

Birds Damage Airplane.

Toledo, Oct. 25.—According to G. L. Murgidg of California, a flock of birds damaged his airplane while 1,500 feet in the air near South Bend, Ind. The state will furnish $165,000 of state and federal money, and the county will furnish $270,000, as approved by the state highway department.

FENG IN CONTROL OF CAPITAL

GENERAL WU'S ARMY CUT OFF

Shanghai, Oct. 25.—General Feng Yu Hsiang, whose forces occupied the Chinese capital Thursday, now dominates the Peking government.

Reports received here state that Wu Pei Fu, his support cut off by a coup in Peking of his trusted lieutenant, Feng, had fled to Tsingtao.

The Manchurian dictator, Tsang Lo Hsin, issued a statement from his headquarters at Mukden announcing the end of the war with the central government at Peking. The statement said that Feng was in possession of Peking; that President Tsao Kun had taken refuge in the legation quarter of the capital city, and that Wu Pei Fu, commander-in-chief of the central government armies, was in full flight. Retreat of central government armies at Shanhaikwan had been cut off, it was declared.

Another report received here said that General Wu Pei Fu was on his way to Tsingtao, Shantung province, with 10,000 soldiers when he was faced with the choice of escape or surrender.

A parley was held at Tien Tsin between the foreign military commanders, at which measures were discussed for the protection of the railway lines. Chinese are apprehensive, fearing the possible result of the defeat of central government troops on the Shanhaikwan front, as Tien Tsin lies across the natural route of the retreat.

PROBING DISASTER

Officials Would Place Blame For Death of School Pupils.

Lorain, O., Oct. 25.—Officials are probing the accident which caused the death of four children and the maiming of a score, when an interurban car struck a school bus near Sheffield, this county. Seventeen of the children are still in the hospital here, to which they were removed after the crash. Five are in a serious condition, physicians report. Slight hope is held for Jack McGettrick, 6, who suffered concussion of the brain. Officials and persons in the community testified to the carelessness of Elmer Owen, 35, driver of the bus, whose 7-year-old son was one of the four victims.

Owen declared he was giving his version of the accident that he had stopped at the crossing as usual. He added: "An eastbound limited went by and I saw no other car approaching. Just as the bus started across the tracks I saw the westbound local speeding down upon us. I had no time to back up. My only chance was to beat it across. I tried, but failed. As usual, the children were shouting and singing, so that I could not have heard the whistle if it was blown."

Woman Seeking Office.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Women are contesting two governorships and 22 seats in the national house of representatives in the present campaign. The women seeking the gubernatorial chairs are "Ma" Ferguson in Texas and Mrs. Nellie G. Ross, widow of the late Governor Ross, in Wyoming, while contestants for seats in congress are scattered through 12 states, California, Iowa, Kansas, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Nebraska, Washington, Oregon, Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

Negligence Alleged.

South Charleston, O., Oct. 25.—George G. Hicks, local contractor, was sued for $56,069 damages by Pearl H. Hayden, administratrix of the estate of Harry J. Hayden, who was killed in Springfield last June when a building Hicks was constructing collapsed. The suit claims the man's death was due to the negligence of Hicks as contractor.

Bloodhounds Used.

Gallipolis, O., Oct. 25.—Bloodhounds led officers to a field where Pearl Deem was working on his farm, near Racine, after the barn of Raymond Irwin nearby had been burned to the ground, supposedly by an incendiary. Deem was arrested. Several horses and cows and an auto burned in the fire.

COOLIDGE SPEAKS

Loans to Europeans Not Supported by American Arms.

Washington, Oct. 25.—President Coolidge in an address before the Near East Relief association declared that Europe does not want American benevolence, "but our help and we are ready to give it." He continued: "America wants the peace of good will and of the golden rule; not the peace of force imposed by those who have power. It wants peace, as the normal, the right, the assured estate in a world from which a wiser generation shall have forever outlawed aggressive war."

Mr. Coolidge restated that while this government had given its "general approbation" to numerous loans made by its private citizens in aiding the refinancing of European countries, the loans were made "without the assumption of any obligation whatever by our government." "American investors receive no assurance that their loans or agreements will be supported by American arms," Coolidge explained. "It is gratifying that American capital has been able to facilitate the carrying out to effect of the Dawes plan with its promise of economic recuperation abroad, from which we as well as the peoples abroad, will benefit. But loans are made without commitments on the part of this government."

Gun Battle With Bandits.

New York, Oct. 25.—In a gun battle between two bandits and two messengers of the Brink Express company, two men were wounded. The bandits attempted to take a payroll of between $20,000 and $30,000. Franklin Good, a paymaster, was probably fatally wounded. When Good was shot down, John Callahan, a messenger, grabbed the money bag. Although wounded Callahan prevented the bandits from obtaining the money.

DAVIS ISSUES DENIAL

Says He Is Not Hostile to Workmen's Compensation Law.

Columbus, Oct. 25.—Formal denial was made by former Governor Harry L. Davis of his alleged hostility to the state workmen's compensation law, as claimed in recent statements issued by the Democratic headquarters. Davis said:

"There is nothing obscure about my record. It is fully explanatory of my attitude toward workmen's compensation. It leaves no room for misunderstanding. I stand now as I have always stood on workmen's compensation. Any charge that I have attempted in any way to break down compensation and operation of the workmen's compensation is the very reverse of the truth, as those making it fully know. The 1920 Republican state platform pledged effective maintenance and operation of the act and extension of its benefits to those incapacitated through occupational diseases. The pledge was carried out, as my record demonstrated. The present state platform pledges accord with the principle of the compensation law and maintenance and improvement of its terms and administration."

SECRETARY WEEKS EXPOSES BOBISM

He Neatly Takes to Pieces the LaFollette Myth and Shows Its Folly.

John W. Weeks, of Massachusetts, secretary of war and formerly United States senator, in a recent radio address delivered at Washington, took apart the LaFollette myth, held it up to close scrutiny, and laid the result before his thousands of hearers.

LaFollette's chief strength, Secretary Weeks pointed out, is derived from the amalgamation of the forces of discontent into a political party. Backing his candidacy are Communists, Socialists, I. W. W.'s, malcontents, converts of Lenin, Trotsky, Debs and Emma Goldman.

"Running true to form," the secretary said, "LaFollette has sought to arouse class antagonisms, discontent, suspicion, distrust, and confusion in the minds of the voters in order to aid his own political fortunes."

Secretary Weeks then proceeded to blast the assumption of LaFollette in calling his group of malcontents the Progressive party. Mr. Weeks pointed out that when a real progressive movement was made in 1912 by Theodore Roosevelt, when the 1912 Progressives were neither Socialists nor radicals of any other stripe, but serious minded Americans honestly trying to improve conditions in the American governmental system, LaFollette sulked in his tent and did all he could to check and destroy the movement.

"I shall not attempt to discuss in detail the various constitutional amendments advocated by Mr. LaFollette," Secretary Weeks said. "Before accepting his ideas with reference to running the national government, however, let us see how they have worked out in Wisconsin, the senator's own state."

Bobism's Effects in Wisconsin.

"Senator LaFollette was elected governor of Wisconsin in 1901 and held that office until 1906, when he became a member of the United States senate. Although absent from the state a great part of the time since 1906, he has continued to control all state offices, and, in addition, control the Wisconsin congressional delegation in Washington. Therefore, as a practical proposition, the government of the state of Wisconsin has been in his hands since 1901. In fact, there is no state in the Union so entirely dominated and controlled by a politician. During the period of LaFollette control, Wisconsin has become thoroughly socialized. Every activity in the state, so far as it could possibly be done, has been put under the jurisdiction of innumerable bureaus, commissions and boards, created and controlled by the LaFollette faction, and, incidentally, Mr. LaFollette has surrounded himself with a huge political machine which is practically impregnable. Every private business has been the subject of constant interference, inspection and supervision by various state boards and bureaus. Of course the taxpayers of the state pay for these bureaucratic activities, as they always do, and the net result has been an abnormal increase in the cost of the state government."

"In 1900 the population of Wisconsin was 2,069,000; in 1920 it was 2,632,000, or substantially an increase of 28 per cent in population since Senator LaFollette became the director of the state. An increase in property assessments during that period was 235 per cent, while state expenditures increased 432 per cent, a greater percentage of increase, I believe, than any other state of the Union. In order to pay for this abnormally expensive state government, every form of taxation known to man has been levied."

As to Government Ownership.

Secretary Weeks, on the subject of government ownership of utilities, referred to the recent discussion of that subject by Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, as the adequate answer to it. He said there was one phase of the subject he wished to discuss himself.

"Canada furnished an excellent example," he said, speaking on this phase of the Socialist-Third party platform. "In character of population, industrial development and extent of territory, Canada is not unlike our own country. Most of the Canadian railroads are controlled by the government. One of them—the Inter-Colonial railroad—was constructed by the government. The cost of construction was unusually excessive—far greater than if constructed by private capital—and upon completion it became a political football, as have government-owned and government-operated railroads everywhere. If a man with sufficient political influence desired a station located near his home, he got it. If he wanted a sidetrack to connect his business with the main railroad line, he got it. The result is that the Inter-Colonial railroad of Canada produces deficit after deficit, and for many years it has been a heavy burden on the taxpayer."

"The textbook of the LaFollette Socialist Party," he continued, "states that the Canadian National railways earned a surplus of $20,000,000 last year. This statement is grossly inaccurate, as are many others in that document. The official reports of the Canadian National railways state that the net income deficit in 1923 was nearly $25,000,000."

U. S. CITIZENS IN PALESTINE FAVORED

Status to Remain Until Ratification of Mandate.

Jerusalem.—Citizens of the United States living in Palestine are accorded privileges over and above those of citizens and subjects of states who are members of the League of Nations.

This is true now pending American ratification of the British mandate for Palestine, but will probably cease to be the case after the United States government will have signed the convention recognizing the mandate.

The convention, it is believed, will secure for Americans in Palestine the same rights as fall to subjects of states who are league members, but no more.

The status of Americans in Palestine will then probably be the same as in Syria, to the French mandate for which United States was reported recently to have agreed.

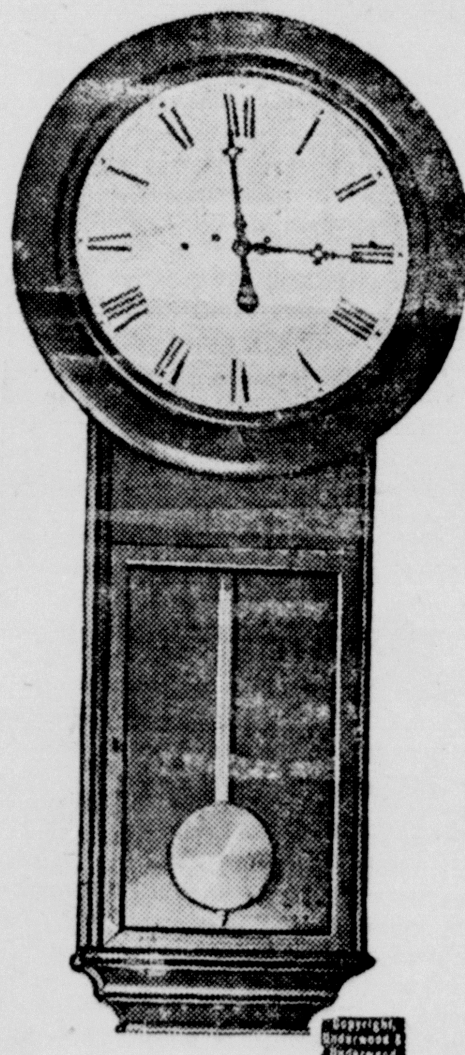

For the present Americans here enjoy the rights of capitulations which, before the dismemberment of the Turkish empire, all great powers insisted on maintaining for their citizens. America has not renounced its capitulatory rights in Palestine, and the American consul is the only one holding court and trying cases between American residents.

The position of the American consular court in Jerusalem is a little vague, because it runs parallel with the British system of justice now in force.

The British government, however, is not known to have raised any objection to the existence of the consular court. The Palestine authorities have even gone out of their way to effect judgments made by the consular court. An American sentenced to prison by the consular court may be locked up in a Palestine jail.

United States Consul Oscar S. Heizer, having received no instructions to the contrary, continues to sit in judgment over American residents who get into trouble, but he is not sure how long this condition will continue.

Swiss Will Attempt to Scale Mount Everest

Geneva.—Switzerland is preparing its national expedition, which will attempt to ascend Mount Everest where the English failed.

The leader of the Swiss team, scheduled to start in spring, 1925, is a well-known Swiss alpinist who already has had experience in the Himalaya mountains. His assistants will be some of Switzerland's best climbers, none over thirty-five years old.

The Swiss intend omitting the heavy oxygen apparatus carried by the English expedition. Instead, they will carry small phials of compressed and liquid oxygen to be injected by syringe and needle into the arteries, if overcome by breathing difficulties.

Wind Robs Man of Three $100 Bills

San Francisco.—The mischievous wind that sprang up recently to swoop down on Market street, flapping the skirts of the flappers cost William Wilson of No. 1145 Howard street $300.

As Wilson was taking out his wallet to buy a Sunday paper the rapacious, predatory zephyr caught three $100 bills and carried them down the street. Wilson leaped to catch his flying money, but the gust carried them around a corner and, although he spent most of his morning searching the streets, aided by a good-sized crowd, he was unable to recover the bills.

Anti-Fat Campaign in 1863.

The fattest man of all history is a title that has rested undisputed on Daniel Lambert, who died in his fortieth year at Stamford, Eng., in 1809. Mr. Lambert is said to have weighed 739 pounds, almost 200 pounds more than his closest competitor, Mr. Bright, who lived in Essex in the previous century. Bright, however, was scarcely a sylph, for his waistcoat is reputed to have enclosed seven persons of ordinary size, with room to spare. One of the first recorded anti-fat campaigns was that inaugurated by William Banting, who published a pamphlet on the subject in 1863. He urged as a cure greater moderation in the eating of sugar and starch, and gained so much fame that today "banting" is common vernacular for undertaking a restrictive diet.

Fashion Asserts Cloche Is Passe

Latest Style Hats Include Rolling Brim; Winsome Large Models.

Tradition says that a woman whose hat, boots and gloves are right is well dressed, whatever frock she may be wearing, says a fashion writer in the New York Times. With certain qualifications, it is a safe rule, but it leaves much for the couturier to do to meet the present-day model. The three accessories of fashionable dress receive more attention now than ever before, but there is still an indefinable something to be desired, and the artist who finds it is distinguished.

The one part of the fashionable costume that has shown most radical changes this season is the bonnet. The universally popular little cloche, which became a habit and was worn regardless of any question of becomingness, of propriety or taste as to time or place, has at last gone into the discard. Several times its doom was prophesied, designers making heroic efforts to win favor for some other type of chapeau, but the vogue of the cloche was tenacious and was given up reluctantly.

In its place, and keeping somewhat to the same line and feeling, is a close hat of similar character, more generous in the crown, but with a snug rolling brim framing ringlets or "water waves." Another shape meeting the preference of the woman to whom it is well suited shades the face with a narrow brim, straight, or slightly drooping, and rolling gradually toward the back, where it turns up close to the crown.

These hats are strictly tailored and have practically no trimming but a narrow band of ribbon or leather, a tiny cravat bow or buckle, usually directly in front. Sports hats are softer, of velvet, felt, stitched cloth, or ribbed silk, but oftentimes are modeled after the stiffer ones. These are the hats that challenge youth and freshness of color—the "slouch" type that only a young and pretty or an exceedingly smart older woman may wear with success.

With coats of fur, or any one of the new coats in cloth, fur-trimmed or satin, also fur-trimmed, for daytime wear, automobiling and sports wear, the small hat, whether it is built on close or on generous lines, is necessary.

A supreme cause for rejoicing in the new millinery is the return of the large and the larger hat.

The large hat is very smart with the straight gowns, worn by a woman of slim figure, and is much improved by the addition of a scarf, one of almost any material, so it be modish in color, of chiffon or crepe, fur-trimmed, repeating some one feature in the hat.

"Medium hats," making for comfort, convenience and youthfulness, are the achievement of the hour. Only a master hand, knowing types, traditions and something of the psychology of bonnets, can make a smart "medium" hat. Yet one of these, when it is done with a subtle something in millinery craftsmanship, is far more distinguished than either of the extremes.

That Low Flare

As a rule, gowns and wraps retain the straight line, so beloved of women, but one deserves an occasional tendency toward flare at the lower hem line. This is apt to be gained by means of platings inset at a seam or by godets hiding below the knee, where a side opening of the otherwise tight skirt, frees itself to allow the wearer to step out."

Care of Voile

Voile requires careful laundering. Never rub soap directly on the goods because this will thicken the threads. This material should be soaked in soap suds, washed in warm suds and rinsed twice—first in luke warm water, then in cold water. It should not be put through a wringer, but squeezed through the hands. A very cool iron will serve for pressing.

Made His Point Clear

Sir John Simon, K. C., the eminent advocate, was once addressing a group of young legal students, and among other things he warned them always to sift carefully all evidence, and never on any account to allow themselves to jump to conclusions.

"Now," he continued, "a friend of mine who has just returned from a hunting expedition in central Africa told me of a most remarkable occurrence. He and his party were trekking through a heavily wooded region when the cries of a number of birds attracted him to a bit of overgrown jungle. Peering within he beheld a trunkless body."

"My dear fellow," retorted the smiling K. C., "didn't I warn you not to jump to conclusions? The body was that of an elephant."—San Francisco Argonaut.

SCHOOL PARADE WAS
FEATURE OF BIG SHOW.

Children Representing Old Glory, Historic Characters and the Seasons Made a Most Pleasing Picture--Seventy-Two Trucks Were in Line, Twelve From Pickaway Township--Fancy Work Department Very Popular With 245 Entries.

Friday will long be remembered as one of the greatest parade days ever given at a Pumpkin Show as the school children of the entire county, including the children of the parochial school of this city were given a holiday and every child that could get here was in the city to see the most handsome turnout of a school parade that was ever staged in the county seat.

The day was ideal for the children, the warmth of an autumnal sun, chased the chilly atmosphere that had been hovering around for the past three days and people came by the thousands and lined the streets to see what the superintendents of the city and county schools had promised them in the way of a parade.

They came, they saw, and were pleased far beyond their expectations the beauty of the scene of the children passing by in review, representing the four seasons following their representative floats, made as pretty a picture as one could wish to see. Children marched to the time of the band and formed the National flag. Little tots looking as solemn as owls, as tho their life depended on making a good showing made a most pleasing sight, one that will live for all time in the hearts of the loved ones who were intently watching the parade. The pageants put on in some of the larger cities had nothing on the colors of the rainbow represented by the children from the first to the sixth grades.

The centralized schools were not behind those of the county seat, Pickaway township, with its float of Indians, and the famous Logan Elm, was a clever makeup.

There were seventy-two auto school trucks in the parade and this alone showed the interest along school lines in Ohio's richest agricultural county. The county has ninety such motor vehicles taking the young pupils to and from school daily.

The fancy work department seems to be the most popular department in the Pumpkin Show's many exhibits. In this there were 245 entries, comprising 536 pieces. Mrs. Katharine Head, mother of Ralph Head, who is in her 83d year was awarded the second prize on a handsome table cover, which she recently finished. The handmade sewing by little Lois Ater, of Williamsport, aged 12, and the towel made by little Katharine Kraft, aged eight, were wonders in their line and both were given first prizes. Eleven entries were made for display only, among there was a fine quilt representing the American flag made by Mrs. Anna Stonerock.

A novelty was the exhibit of a bed spread in which was worked Masonic emblems up as far as the Chapter degrees. The work is done in red and white on a blue background. It is over a hundred years old and is the property of Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Spangler, of West High street.

NOTES

Pickaway township was the only centralized school that had its complete roster of school children in the line of march. It took twelve motor trucks to carry them; this school also had a float in addition to the motor trucks.

One of the stunts pulled off by the city schools was the counter march on East Main street, before the parade got under way. This was given so the children would have an opportunity to see each other in line.

AMUSEMENTS

"The King of Wild Horses" a Pathe picture produced by Hal Roach and shown yesterday at the Met theater where it remains until tonight is a picture that stirs the emotions to the very depths—that thrills the hearts to memory. Its central figure is a wild the core—that scars the brain with a stallion that is the most magnificent creature that ever enacted a drama of love and hate—of loyalty and devotion.

Directed by Fred Jackman from Hal Roach's story, "The King of Wild Horses" has a plot that commands and holds the interest, a love story that delights and charms and it contains feats of skill and luring that thrill and startle.

A wild stallion, monarch of the plains and leader of a band of mares, is pursued by man, whom he hates. It is a wild, thrilling, enthralling chase horse cunning vs. man's skill! Then a forest fire traps the horse and his greater fear of the fire enables the cowboy to capture the beautiful creature—or rather to save him from destruction. At last the man-hating, man killing beast learns of the kindness of man. To the man he owes devotion and loyalty and gives it with all the passion of his wild nature.

Leon Bary, as the cowboy who captures the wild horse, has a strenuous role and one that calls for the performance of daring riding and stunts, as well as acting, and on the latter score Bary acquires himself as any leading man of Bernhardt's should. Edna Murphy is charming as the heroine and the remainder of the cast acts in character.

MEMORIAL TO DR. COLVILL

Family of Physician Endows Room in Tuberculosis Sanitarium.

Deceased Had Planned This Characteristic Work, but Was Not Permitted to See Its Fulfillment His Wish to Relieve Suffering Being Carried Out.

The family of the late Dr. George H. Colvill, who died in Grant hospital, Columbus, October 25, 1922, has endowed a room in the Southwest Sanitarium at Albuquerque, New Mexico, in memory of the husband and father who was an honored resident of this city and whose heart was always touched by the suffering of humanity and whose sympathy always went out to those in distress.

This sanitarium is a benevolent institution, incorporated by the synod of New Mexico for the climatic and scientific treatment of tuberculosis, and it has done and is doing wonderful work.

The beneficent purposes and accomplishments of this institution appealed strongly to Dr. Colvill and being a physician, he saw its advantages and possibilities and after going over the matter carefully, he decided to build a cottage and give it to the sanitarium. His plans were not entirely matured when death overtook him in the midst of an active, useful life, and so he was not permitted to see the fulfillment of his hopes.

The family of Dr. Colvill, believing also in the great helpfulness of this institution and being solicitous to relieve human suffering and anxious to carry out the wishes of the doctor, promptly made up their minds to complete what he had begun. When it came to closing up the matter, they were informed that while a cottage would be most acceptable yet, if a Memorial room were endowed in the large hospital building, it would serve a better purpose and better meet the needs of the sanitarium.

Having in mind only an adherence to the doctor's wishes and with the idea of accomplishing the greatest possible good, the family adopted the suggestion and the contract for the Memorial room has been closed.

Sixteen years ago the pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Albuquerque, impressed with the great need of a comfortable and inexpensive place where the great throngs of sick who went to the Southwest might be cared for, took the matter up with the synod of the church and established "The Southwestern Presbyterian Sanatorium."

The beginning was made in a small frame dwelling, to which was attached four tent cottages. The institution soon found good friends, who helped with their money and they now have an institution with a capacity of over 100 patients, of which the entire denomination may well be proud. Patients have gone there from every state in the Union and many wonderful cures have been effected. They receive patients regardless of their religious affiliation and a true Christian atmosphere is maintained throughout.

This memorial to Dr. Colvill is more enduring than granite and its helpful effects will be felt, not only by those take advantage of the benefits of the sanitarium, but by their children and their children's children, thru all the years to come.

Many sufferers will undoubtedly be thankful for the thoughtfulness and generosity of Dr. Colvill and grateful also to his family for carrying out what he had proposed.

A Pioneer Wooing.

The Dutch patroons of the Hudson and the Mohawk valley were a hardy race. Years ago, says Mr. James Fenimore Cooper in "Legends of a Northern County," I was told the story of the wooing of charming Margritta von Schlechtenhorst, wife of Philip Schuyler. It seems that Philip, who was big and stout, came to blows with Margritta's father on the trail near Rensselaerwyck in a dispute over pelts or tobacco or rum. Philip was winning when Margritta rushed to the aid of her father and began to beat his antagonist. Philip was so much impressed with her fistie ability and with her possible value as an ally in those days of red men and danger that he wooed and married her. All that was about the year 1650. I cannot vouch for the story, but it was an old man's tale when I was a boy in Albany, where many people spoke Dutch of the Seventeenth century.

Wise Old Jud.

Jud Turkins says people ought to think twice before they speak; and some of 'em ought to think four or six times before they try to sing.

Woman's Suffrage.

The first state to grant full suffrage to women was Colorado, in 1893. However, the Wyoming territory, in 1890, had enfranchised women.

TO CHILDREN'S HOME.

The five children of Charles and Mazie Hixon, of Deercreek township have been certified by Judge Adkins into the Children's Home. The mother is a patient in a hospital and the father is unable to be at his work and care for the dependents.

SCHOOL PARADE WAS
FEATURE OF BIG SHOW.

Children Representing Old Glory, Historic Characters and the Seasons Made a Most Pleasing Picture -- Seventy-Two Trucks Were in Line, Twelve From Pickaway Township--Fancy Work Department Very Popular With 245 Entries.

Friday will long be remembered as one of the greatest parade days ever given at a Pumpkin Show as the school children of the entire county, including the children of the parochial school of this city were given a holiday and every child that could get here was in the city to see the most handsome turnout of a school parade that was ever staged in the county seat.

The day was ideal for the children, the warmth of an autumnal sun, chased the chilly atmosphere that had been hovering around for the past three days and people came by the thousands and lined the streets to see what the superintendents of the city and county schools had promised them in the way of a parade.

They came, they saw, and were pleased far beyond their expectations the beauty of the scene of the children passing by in review, representing the four seasons following their representative floats, made as pretty a picture as one could wish to see. Children marched to the time of the band and formed the National flag. Little tots looking as solemn as owls, as tho their life depended on making a good showing made a most pleasing sight, one that will live for all time in the hearts of the loved ones who were intently watching the parade. The pageants put on in some of the larger cities had nothing on the colors of the rainbow represented by the children from the first to the sixth grades.

The centralized schools were not behind those of the county seat, Pickaway township, with its float of Indians, and the famous Logan Elm, was a clever make-up.

There were seventy-two auto school trucks in the parade and this alone showed the interest along school lines in Ohio's richest agricultural county. The county has ninety such motor vehicles taking the young pupils to and from school daily.

The fancy work department seems to be the most popular department in the Pumpkin Show's many exhibits. In this there were 245 entries, comprising 536 pieces. Mrs. Katharine Head, mother of Ralph Head, who is in her 83d year was awarded the second prize on a handsome table cover, which she recently finished. The handmade sewing by little Lois Ater, of Williamsport, aged 12, and the towel made by little Katharine Kraft, aged eight, were wonders in their line and both were given first prizes. Eleven entries were made for display only, among there was a fine quilt representing the American flag made by Mrs. Anna Stonerock.

A novelty was the exhibit of a bed spread in which was worked Masonic emblems up as far as the Chapter degrees. The work is done in red and white on a blue background. It is over a hundred years old and is the property of Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Spangler, of West High street.

NOTES

Pickaway township was the only centralized school that had its complete roster of school children in the line of march. It took twelve motor trucks to carry them; this school also had a float in addition to the motor trucks.

One of the stunts pulled off by the city schools was the counter march on East Main street, before the parade got under way. This was given so the children would have an opportunity to see each other in line.

It seems that Philip, who was big and stout, came to blows with Margritta's father on the trail near Rensselaerwyck in a dispute over pelts or tobacco or rum. Philip was winning when Margritta rushed to the aid of her father and began to beat his antagonist. Philip was so much impressed with her fistie ability and with her possible value as an ally in those days of red men and danger that he wooed and married her. All that was about the year 1650. I cannot vouch for the story, but it was an old man's tale when I was a boy in Albany, where many people spoke Dutch of the Seventeenth century.

Why the Earth Rotates.

The Naval observatory says that the earth continues to rotate on its axis because the only forces (such as friction by tides) tending to stop it are inadequate to produce an appreciable effect. The origin of this rotation is a matter for speculation, depending upon how the earth was separated from the primeval nebula out of which the solar system is believed to have been evolved.

Printer Surely Worthy of His High Position

Skilled workmen are today receiving higher daily pay than ten years ago, says the national industrial conference board. No news or novelty is in that statement. But it may be worth knowing that at the time of making the report printers held first place in the magnitude of their weekly earnings, writes Merle Thorpe in the Nation's Business. Newspaper and magazine printers received an average weekly pay of $36.14. Rated second were the iron and steel workers with an average pay of $33.57 a week. And in third place stood the automobile factory workers with $31.12 a week. Next in amount of their pay checks were the book and job printers, foundry and machine shop workers, agricultural implement workers, chemical factory employees and workers in electrical and rubber factories.

Well, who would begrudge the printer his high place in American industry? He makes known the sayings, writings and doings of other men, and for that service the world is much beholden to him. Much ink has gone over the rollers since the times of Gutenberg and Caxton, and now the craft of the printer's hand is supplemented with machinery of artful capabilities. But manuscripts continue to reflect human frailties and fallibilities, and printers must still grope for the meaning of absent minds. Printers are much with the world and in close touch with its sham and artifice. Small wonder that they should become dour and gray with brooding on the injustice of "typographical errors."

But the great peace will come when the last line is set at last and rule and stick put by and type and setter both alike in proper makeup lie. Others will then do for the printer the mortuary honor to print his name in "dops" and perhaps accord him the dignity of the four-stroke dash. And, like us not, his soul would remain in character with his life, and would relax no standard of his craft—probably the Milky Way would seem only "wrong font."

Lugubrious Message

When Miss Marie Lohr, the clever English actress, was appearing in the part of Cinderella in "Pinky and the Fairies," a play that was being produced under the direction of Beer-bohm Tree, she was also rehearsing for a part in the tragic play "Hannele," in which she had to die. The preparation for both productions was being carried on simultaneously at the same theater, His Majesty's.

In the midst of Tree's reiterated injunctions to the "Pinky and the Fairies" company to be merry and bright, a lugubrious-looking stage carpenter, working on Hannele, appeared in the wings and, beckoning to Miss Lohr, called out:

"Excuse me, miss, but can you step dahn below a minute? I want to measure you for your coffin."

At the Ends of the Earth

When explorers and naturalists come back to civilization their accounts often read as if they were fairy tales. William Beebe, who has returned from a visit to the strangest islands in the world, the Galapagos, 600 miles off the coast of South America, apparently discovered the source of many tales of fiction. Buccaneers buried their booty there in old days when the islands were called "the Enchanted Islands." Whalers, mutineers and shipwrecked persons have told of their charm. In Mr. Beebe's account, entitled "Galapagos: World's End," he speaks of five hundred pound turtles, fantastic reptiles, and birds and beasts that gave no sign of fear when encountered.

Clung to Coats of Arms.
George Washington used, on his seal and bookplate, the English arms that had been in his family for generations. Even the Quakers among the early settlers, although they advocated simple, austere living, and abandoned plumes for their hats and lace for coat sleeves, would have considered it a renunciation of an inherited right, like relinquishing their family names, to give up the coats of arms granted to their ancestors.

Woman Bemoans Fact of Lack of Chivalry
Chivalry once flourished in this land of ours, but alas, now it is as dead as an Egyptian mummy. It is a lost art—so lost, indeed, that were a man to be observed practicing its rites in this age his friends would tap their foreheads significantly and sadly remark that "poor John is evidently not quite as he should be."

See the crowd dashing after the early morning trains and cars, enjoining a woman writer in London answers. Do the present-day men stand on one side and help the women on? Oh, dear no! The scene is more like a football match or a free fight, from which the distressed damsel emerges with her hat over one eye, half her hairpins lost and a couple of ribs broken in her umbrella.

The modern "lord of creation" differs considerably from the knights of old.

On arriving at the office, when his typist apologizes for being five minutes late owing to some calamity in the house circle, does he sweetly say: "Oh, don't mention it!"

No, he snaps out, "There's no excuse for you, Miss Smith, you're not a victim of the morning after the night before."

He reaches home in the evening and when his wife desires to unburden herself on the subject of her household worries he insists on taking the floor and holding forth on the lack of appreciation of his great business abilities shown by the managing director.

When the baby cries in the small cold hours of the morning, does he hop out of bed and gently soothe him back to slumber again? Oh, no! He sleepily grunts "What's a woman good for if she can't keep one small kid quiet?"

As a lover, too, the modern young man is sadly lacking. His ancestor of a few generations ago would have fought a duel to death to win a smile from his adored one; but the sultor of today becomes a sulky bear if his lady-love keeps him waiting for five minutes, although he knows only too well gold medals have never been awarded to the fair sex for punctuality.

No; the age of chivalry is dead; but we Twentieth century women have slaughtered it ourselves, so its no use grousing. Through reaching out for votes and equal rights with men we have toppled off those pedestals on which we used to be enthroned.

No longer can we shroud ourselves in a veil of romance and mystery—we've torn it to bits on the golf course and the football field.

Yet sometimes—bend your head and let one modern woman whisper a secret—I'd like to creep back to my deserted pedestal.

KEEPING WELL
CRETINISM
DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"
(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

ONE of the village characters in the small town in which I grew up was "Little Jo." Everybody in town knew him. Although twenty-five or thirty years old, Jo was only as tall as a ten-year-old boy. He was short and "chunky." His nose was broad and flat and turned up at the end. His cheeks were baggy and hung down like dew-laps. His mouth was large and his lips thick. His voice was a childish high treble, with a muffled quality due to his thick tongue. His hair was heavy and coarse. His large head, set on a short thick neck, seemed almost to grow on his shoulders. His legs were short and heavy. Altogether, he looked like one of the dwarfs Rip Van Winkle found playing ninepins in the Catskills.

Almost every town has one or more of these unfortunate.

When Julius Caesar lead his legions into Switzerland he found, among the mountains, many people with swollen necks. This disease, known to the Greeks and Romans, was called goller. Wherever goller was common, these dwarfs were found in large numbers. The ancient world regarded dwarfs and deformed persons as freaks of nature and objects of amusement, rather than as victims of disease.

As the Swiss were Christians, these dwarfs were called cretins.

It has taken us nearly two thousand years to learn that these unfortunate beings are not sent into a life of misery and deformity by nature or God to furnish mirth for the ignorant and thoughtless. They are what they are because the chemical laboratory in their bodies is lacking some very necessary equipment.

At the base of the neck in the human body, lies a large gland, the thyroid. Just what part of the body's work it does we do not know. But what happens to the body when the gland is absent we do know.

About fifty years ago, Fagge, a French surgeon, found that the thyroid gland was entirely missing in cretins. If cretinism is due to the absence of the thyroid, then the sensible thing to do is to try and give cretins the thyroid material their bodies are lacking. So they were fed raw thyroid from the calf. These glands are called sweetbreads and are considered great delicacies.

The change which followed was marvelous. It was as if the child had been transformed. The swollen tongue and lips decreased in size, the rough thickened skin became smooth, the body began to grow.

Then it was found that tablets made of the dried thyroid gland were just as good as the fresh gland and much easier to take.

Naturally, the earlier the treatment is begun, the better the results.

Willing to Oblige
One of the best stories of mistress and maid is reputed to come from Miss Margaret Bondfield, the prominent labor member of the British parliament. A new maid, raw and fresh from a country village, caused her mistress much worry because she did not know how to answer when spoken to, and never addressed people in the right way. At last, having endured the girl's awkwardness as long as possible, the mistress said to her one day: "Oh, Mary, I do wish you would call me 'mum'."

Mary looked astonished. For a long time she turned the request over in her slow-working mind; then at length she spoke: "I couldn't do that," she said. "I really couldn't."

"Why not?" asked her mistress patiently. "Why can't you call me 'mum'?"

"Well, you see," hesitated Mary. "that's what I call my mother. But"—with a sudden flash of joy—"I'll call you 'auntie' if you like."

Eagle Sometimes Ill-Omened.
The eagle is found on the royal arms of a great many civilized nations. Curiously enough, the eagle has often proved a bird of ill omen for nations who adopted him as their device; for in many cases they have risen to great power only to sustain terrible reverses. Rome conquered the world under the eagle-standards of her legions, and then crumbled into dust. Napoleon's eagles made him the terror of the world, till he fell more rapidly than he had risen. In the World war the eagles of Germany, Austria, Bulgaria, and Russia were brought low.

A Record of Accomplishment

By Edwin D. Ricketts, Congressman from Ohio's Eleventh District.

The people of the Eleventh Congressional district ought to know the value of a real congressman. This district was ably represented by Edwin D. Ricketts in the congress of the United States. No complaint has ever been made, either by Democrats or Republicans, as to the quality of the service that he rendered.

Everybody knows that he made one of the best representatives that Ohio has ever sent to congress. Never were the people of this district so well represented. Never were their interests better looked after. He cheerfully responded to every demand made upon him. He was able to do things and did them. Both in private life and as an official in congress he has always been kind and generous to the poor. He has always taken a delight in helping those who needed help. The same charitable attitude that he displayed in his private and professional life was exemplified in his official service. He certainly was the friend of the common people.

He procured appropriations of $48,000 for the federal postoffice building in Logan.

He was successful in having Camp Sherman named as one of the three cantonments in the United States to be retained as permanent military posts.

He was able to secure the Vocational Training schools for Camp Sherman for the training of disabled soldiers of the World war.

He secured the necessary appropriation to maintain the Vocational Training school at Camp Sherman.

He secured an appropriation of $1,500,000 for the construction of a federal hospital at Camp Sherman.

Mr. Ricketts helped to frame the Federal Roads bill, and worked incessantly to secure the passage of the same on June 11, 1916, and the amendments thereto, on November 9, 1921.

Under the provisions of this act Ohio has received $20,500,000 from the government for the construction and improvement of roads.

The Eleventh Congressional district has received, under the provisions of this law, the sum of $817,300, distributed among the counties composing the district as follows:

Fairfield county	$221,800
Hocking county	253,500
Pickaway county	102,500
Perry county	188,000
Ross county	51,500

He distributed:
6,332 Agricultural Yearbooks,
180 sets of the Congressional Record,
584 books on Diseases of Horses,
590 books on Diseases of Cattle
200,000 Farmers' Bulletins,
1,029 United States maps,
145,000 packages of garden seed,
23,000 packages of flower seed,
1,800 packages of special field seeds
500 packages of lawn grass seed,
1,800 packages of bulbs,
500 shrub and hedge plants,
Thousands of copies of Departmental Reports, bulletins of the Bureau of Geology, Geological Survey, Bureau of Education, Bureau of Immigration, as well as hundreds of topographic maps and other publications available for distribution.

He secured:
306 pensions thru the Bureau of Pensions,
54 pensions by special act of congress,
249 compensations for soldiers of the World war,
94 government insurance adjustments,
Vocational training for 68 soldiers of the World war,
Hospitalization for 74 soldiers of the World war,
A number of musical instruments for American Legion bands at reduced rates,
A number of obsolete cannon from the government for park purposes.
He wrote 175,427 letters.

Mr. Ricketts supported:
The budget bill which saves the taxpayers $700,000,000 annually,
The merchant marine bill,
The minimum wage bill,
The good roads bill,
The Sells pension act,
The Fuller pension act,
The bill providing for additional hospitals for veterans of the World war.
All legislation providing compensation, rehabilitation, hospitalization, vocational training, insurance and allotment adjustments in the interest of soldiers of the World war.
The Federal Farm Loan act,
Farmers' Co-operative Marketing act,
Bill regulating the Packing Industry of the country,
Bill authorizing sale of farm loan bonds at 5 1/2 %.

Bill providing for the continuation of the War Finance board.
And for hundreds of other bills, both public and private in the interest of workers, manufacturers, farmers, merchants and laboring men of the country.

All tax reduction measures.
The provision increasing the exemptions to heads of families, thereby exempting many of them, who were least able to pay, from the income tax and reducing the taxes of many others.

In brief, Mr. Ricketts made one of the greatest records ever made by any congressman. He was at his post constantly, looking after the interests of his constituency and rendered a high quality of splendid service to all the people all the time.

We ask you to compare the above record with the accomplishments of the present incumbent in congress. Then vote for the man whom you believe will be most useful to this great district and its people.

It is not a matter of mere politics. It is a chance to again elect a real worker, one who will not only labor for the best interests of the people of the district but who will back up President Coolidge in the great work he has undertaken.—The Logan Republican.

Trees' Limits

The reason pine trees are so often associated with mountain scenery is because they are among the few trees that can grow at a very high altitude. Pine trees can grow at 6,200 feet, firs at 6,700 feet; but you will rarely find an ash above 4,800 feet, or an oak above 3,350 feet.

Some Velocities.

When the temperature is 32 degrees, sound travels 1,000 feet a second and one additional foot a second for each additional degree of temperature. Electricity over a wire where there is no resistance travels 192,924 miles a second.

GIRL ABDUCTED

Seized by Three Drunken Motorists and Spirited Away.

Toledo, Oct. 25.—Three drunken motorists abducted Leona Harding, 13, a school girl of this city, according to Mary Komorny, her chum, who says she was dragged into the abductors' coupe, but was pushed out after riding a block. The Komorny girls says three young men, well dressed and apparently under the influence of liquor, drove toward the children and invited them to ride. They refused. Two of the occupants alighted, seized the girls and pulled them into the machine. After the car had been driven a block the trio ejected Mary, but retained their hold on Leona, who is five feet four inches in height, weighs 130 pounds and appears to be about 16 years old. The missing girl has dark brown hair and gray eyes. Her parents reside in this city.
